The kitchen brigade at the Manila Hotel, which was under martial law, was in a very difficult situation. They had no stove and no water, which made their work very hard. ### Summary

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the effect of temperature on the growth of E. coli O157:H7 in ground beef. The vertical axis (Y-axis) represents the concentration in log<sub>10</sub> CFU/g, ranging from 0 to 10. The horizontal axis (X-axis) represents time in hours, with markers at 0, 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10. The depth axis (Z-axis) represents temperature in °C, with markers at 4, 10, 16, 22, 28, 34, and 40. The chart shows that growth is most rapid at 40°C, reaching approximately 10 log<sub>10</sub> CFU/g by 10 hours. Growth is significantly slower at lower temperatures, with the lowest growth observed at 4°C, where the concentration remains near 0 log<sub>10</sub> CFU/g throughout the 10-hour period.

Rising demand for bottled water raises new concerns

BY BEATRIZ TAN MATTHEW
 A new study is showing that the use of bottled water is increasing exponentially, and consumers are becoming more concerned about the quality of the water they are drinking.

According to a new study by the National Sanitation Foundation, bottled water sales in the U.S. are expected to reach $1.5 billion by 2005, up from $1 billion in 2000.

The study also found that the use of bottled water is increasing among people who are concerned about the quality of the water they are drinking. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that bottled water is often marketed as being healthier than tap water.

However, the study also found that the use of bottled water is not necessarily a good idea. This is because bottled water is often made from tap water, which may contain harmful chemicals and bacteria.

The study also found that the use of bottled water is often a waste of money. This is because bottled water is often more expensive than tap water, and it may not be as healthy as people think it is.

Despite these concerns, the use of bottled water is still increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that bottled water is often marketed as being healthier than tap water.

However, the study also found that the use of bottled water is not necessarily a good idea. This is because bottled water is often made from tap water, which may contain harmful chemicals and bacteria.
